TO PROVE its solvency, the Soviet government invited all foreign representatives to inspect the $50,000,000 Romanoff jewel collection just intact.

The envoys, having carefully studied the piles of diamonds, pearls, rubies, gold and platinum, are supposed to have said, like Mr. Warfield at Weber & Fields: "My boy, your WORD is sufficient."

BOLSHEVISM keeps the jewels, including a miniature railroad train, studded with big diamonds, as a horrible example and proof of Romanoff extravagance.

BUT it's what the cars DID that count, not what they spent. The great Peter spent all that Russia had and borrowed more.

But he CREATED RUSSIA, and was a first-class investment.

MANNA won the Derby at 9 to 1. Steve Donohue rode the horse, winning his sixth Derby. All that means more to 70 per cent. of Great Britain's population than all the other news of the week put together.

In this country we don't devote such intense nation-wide interest to any race. We save that for a prize fight.

HENRY FORD will use United States ships, if he gets them, to take cars South and around into the Gulf of Mexico and bring fruit and vegetables back to the North.

That program would be welcomed by millions. It would help to solve one problem of distribution and develop the great producing regions of the South as they should be developed.

Henry Ford's route, of course, should be extended through the Panama Canal to the West Coast. That would not please transcontinental railroads, but they could make it up somehow.

LORD BRADBURY, formerly British member of the Reparations Commission, says France could pay $250,000,000 a year on account of her debts, to be divided between England and the United States, and that regardless of the amount France may receive from Germany.

FRENCH statesmen, who know more about France's financial position than any Englishman can know, declare such payment is impossible. At the present rate of exchange, $250,000,000 would be five hundred million francs a year, which is the amount that Bismarck took at the price of French defeat in 1870.

The worst feature of the discussion is the fall in the French franc.

AMUNDSEN has been missing six days, and the President expresses willingness to send one of our dirigibles to look for him. If disaster has happened to the courageous explorer, it is probable that he will be saved. Looking for him is a task that perhaps only the Pole would be like hunting a half dozen ants in a big hay field.

But, at least, the nation might cry.

CONGRESSMAN FISH from New York thinks the President ought to prosecute Otto H. Kahn, reported to Paris to have said things about the American "debt note" unpleasing to Administration.

GROVER AND WIFE BOTH LOSE PETITIONS

COURT CLEARS WIFE ON ONE CHARGE AND ALLOWS MORE FEES

Salem, May 28.—The Grover divorce hearing, which required fifteen days of argument and attracted hundreds of North Shore society women, concluded today when Judge Harry R. Dow denied her petitions.

Judge Dow granted Mrs. Grover charges of unfairness, but found that at no time was Mrs. Grover unfaithful to her husband, and she was awarded $1,500 for her expenses.

KIRBY SHUNS 'HOUSE OF DEATH'

Harry A. Kirby seemed willing to tell the police many things concerning the killing of Asia Hayward, but he wouldn't go inside the cottage where he said he found her body, and from where he took it to the Gray cottage. His explanations went one way—that he didn't do it. In the picture are Kirby, at the right, Sheriff Cummings and District Attorney Southard, at left, close to the scene of shooting, fire and death on the edge of Lake Maranacook, where Kirby says he threw his revolver.

FIND MAN DEAD, TIED TO FENCE

Methuen, May 28.—Hanging by a rope to a fence, a knife in one hand and a stab wound in the chest, the body of Gustave A. Bolin, sixty-seven years old, was found here today.

Police are investigating, but believe the man took his own life.

4 HURT, 100 FLEE IN NIGHT AS FIRE MENACES HOTEL

Two rescuing policemen and two firemen were overcome by smoke and 100 guests, men and women, most of them in night clothing were driven from their beds early today when fire raged in the Quincy House block.

Great rolls of black smoke poured through the corridors and in the rooms of the hotel, while the flames ate through three shops on the street floor and bored their way to the roof through the walls of the building.

Fire underwriters estimated the loss at $25,000, part of which is covered by insurance. As soon as the fire excitement had died down the daily routine of the hotel was resumed.

Four elderly guests, two men and two women, occupants of adjoining rooms where the smoke was thickest on the second floor, were carried down ladders by firemen.

Patrolman William Owens and Walter Bird of the 23rd street patrol continued on Page 5, Column 7.

2 BOYS STONE BABY TO DEATH IN RIVER

Lowell, May 28.—Confronted by a crime very much like the murder of little Bobby Franks by Leopold and Loeb in Chicago, the Lowell authorities are at loss today as to how to proceed against the two small boys who tore a baby girl from her playthings, threw her into the Merrimack river, and pelted her with stones until she died.

Ordinary prosecution is impossible, because of the extreme youth of the young killers.

BRICKLEY TO TELL HIS SIDE OF 'FRAUD'
Springfield, May 28, (U.S.S.)—"Charley" Brickley, former Harvard football dropkick, said he would take the witness stand in his own defense at his trial today in a stock fraud case.

As the state closed its case the defense opened, with the prospect that the witness stand in his own defense at his trial today in a stock fraud case.

State authorities declare that Lillian White is not "officially dead," because the grand jury refused to identify the skeleton as hers.

Twenty-one girl inmates of the Litchworth village hope for the skeleton's disappearance during the year that Harry Kirby, employed there as an attendant, disappeared in April, 1922, a few days before the skeleton of one of them was found on the mountain.

"That is not an unusual number," said Dr. Little. "The following year there were as many and the disappearance of boys and men reached about the same number."

"I was surprised to learn," said Crawford's intimacy with Lillian White, as told by other high grade inmates, "I do not believe more than half of what they tell but I admit that we have to keep constantly on the watch for such things."

NEVER AN INMATE.
"I know nothing of Crawford's past life. I gave him a job on trial and he proved satisfactory. He was never an inmate. No inmate ever became an attendant during my time. He never used the name of Louis Hunt here as I understand he claims."

A photograph of Kirby was identified by Dr. Little as his former employer. Crawford and the marriage license record of "Crawford" and Ruby Howe was found in his apartment.

Jewelry Believed Stolen by Kirby Is Recovered
Portland, Me., May 28.—More than $700 worth of property alleged to have been stolen from the homes of Miss May Nichols and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Moseley, both residents of Winthrop, last June, was recovered by State Detective Arthur G. Robinson during a search in Winthrop, Portland, Old Orchard and Rum.

Mrs. Harry A. Kirby, according to State Detective Robinson, assisted him in recovering the stolen goods which consist largely of jewelry, and he declared, two Portland shopkeepers say they purchased some of it from Kirby.

The detective asserts that Kirby came to Portland Wednesday, the day of the discovery of the Winthrop crime, with about $25 worth of stolen jewelry, and he says he pawned this, receiving a small amount of money.

Mrs. Kirby accompanied the detective and Mr. and Mrs. Moseley to an Old Orchard cottage, where property was recovered, according to the State detective. At her residence in Rum jewelry identified by Miss Nichols and Mrs. Moseley as their property was found in a trunk.

WALSH TELLS K. OF C. OF WASHINGTON EXPERIENCES
James J. Chittick, Council, Knights of Columbus, had former Senator David I. Walsh as special guest at a thirty-first annual dinner held at the Municipal Building, 1901 Park. A dinner preceded the dancing.

The former Senator spoke of his experiences at Washington. Other speakers were Charles C. McElroy of Providence, a supreme director of the order; the Rev. Henry T. Gindry, chaplain of the council; and Treasurer George H. Carey, G. K.

SPOT WHERE LITTLE VICTIM MET DEATH

The bank of the Merrimack River in Lowell, where 17-months-old Vivian Huxson was pushed into the water by two boys and stoned while she was struggling in the water. Edward J. Hargrave, who chased the boys away and drew the child's body ashore, is shown in the oval.

also are demanding that they be given one day off duty in every seven days pay. They are also demanding that the trustees of the Elevated take out industrial group life insurance for them, out of the earnings of the company.

The conductors and motormen employed by the Elevated are now paid at the rate of 72½ cents an hour, with an increased scale of pay for the operators of one-man cars. This rate was granted by a board of arbitration a year ago and represented a substantial increase over the wage paid prior to that time.

Officials of the trolley workers' union have been working on their new demands for some weeks back and while no public announcement has been made of their demands, the Elevated trustees have been privately informed of the demands the men will make within the next week or two.

Under the existing agreement, the wage controversy will be settled by a board of arbitration. The Elevated trustees have already named Roland W. Hayden, Beverly Banker, as the representative of the company on the board of arbitration. The Elevated workers have selected Attorney James J. Vaher as their representative, although this fact has not yet been announced.

Those close to the high officials of the Boston Elevated, in discussing today, indicated that the trustees would be disposed to sign a renewal of the present wage of the United States Navy dignitary to look for the Amundsen party were definite.

Amundsen Knows His Game, Says Capt. Bartlett
By M. A. DA PARMA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1925, by International News Service.)
New York, May 28.—"If I was a betting man, I'd give heavy odds that Captain Roald Amundsen and his party will return safely from the Pole."

"We can't give up hope for him until next September or October," "Leave Amundsen alone. He knows his game."

These words came from Captain Robert A. Bartlett, commander of Admiral Peary's ship, the "Hosea," which in 1905, when Peary discovered the North Pole.

"Give the man time," he said. "That Arctic waste is big. If you're right, you can't expect a man to log in here, find the Pole, plant a flag, and hop right back again."

"He's probably making his way back along the level young ice which skirts the Pole. He may even be coming back by way of Alaska or Siberia."

Captain Bartlett's views concerning the advisability of sending one of the United States Navy dignitary to look for the Amundsen party were definite.

"Sure! Send 'em up!" he declared. But not to look for Amundsen. "Now is the time to send up the dispatches to make observations and give the navy men some experience in exploration."

Amundsen May Have Used All His Gas, Fighting Fog
London, May 28 (I.N.S.)—Flying boats and ice ships would be the only effective instruments in a search for the Amundsen-Ellsworth party, according to a dispatch to the Central News from Oslo, Norway, today. Airships, in No. 1 opinion, would be ineffective.

A representative of the Den Norske Alverne Company, which constructed the two airplanes used by Amundsen-Ellsworth party, was quoted as saying that he was sure Amundsen encountered clouds or mist and had been unable to use his compass, and thus had been forced to consume most of his gasoline to get back in the path to the Pole.

RUTH STAGES WEDS TONIGHT
Greater Boston society will be represented this evening at the wedding in Medford of Miss Ruth Richards Sturges to Josiah Richardson Toel.

The bride is the daughter of Allan H. Sturges, vice-president of the Liberty Trust Company, and Mrs. Sturges, and the ceremony will take place at their home, No. 125 Governor avenue, Medford.

The groom is the son of Philip J. Toel, treasurer of the Toel Manufacturing Company, and Mrs. Toel, 1024, Miss Sturges is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and a graduate of Dartmouth in 1924.

Miss Sturges is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and a graduate of Dartmouth in 1924. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Harold Hickey of Lynn, former pastor of the First Methodist Church of Medford, and chaplain of the State Department of the American Legion.

ENGLAND IS CLOSED TO COMMUNIST DELEGATES
London, May 28 (A.P.)—Allies known to be engaged in subversive activities abroad will not be admitted to Great Britain to attend the annual conference of British Communists, opening Sunday at Glasgow, Scotland.

The Home Secretary Sir William Joynson-Hicks said he had issued instructions to this effect with the aid of the government.

London dispatches, recently said there had been some anxiety over the rapid growth of the Communist movement in Great Britain since barriers to the entrance of such persons were removed by the MacDonald government. Power to exclude such elements is vested in the Cabinet.

old, and just learning to talk and walk, was the victim.

The boys who have admitted killing her are John Berns, nine years old, of No. 218 Moody street, rear, and Millard Karbon, six years old. Apparently the boys killed the baby, not for a grudge, but for a thrill. They wanted to see her suffer and hear her cry, the police allege.

Among the fathers and mothers of Lowell, there is a demand that something be done with the juvenile killers. Even if ordinary prosecution is out of the question, those agitating for their removal from society say there is ample precedent and ample law to justify such action.

No stranger crime is recorded in the annals of Massachusetts. In their confessions to date, the boys have not said which of them first suggested throwing Vivian Huxson into the river.

She was playing near the bank, chattering to herself, and laughing, when they found her. They took her from her playthings, protesting and crying. They took her clothes off, except for her shoes and stockings. They threw her into the water. Every time she moved, they stoned her. She was so light she did not sink at once.

Edward Paladano, aged 16, of No. 42 Prince street, happened along the river bank while the boys were stoning the drowning infant. He chased the boys away and then pulled the body of the child ashore. He carried the infant to a nearby house but when doctors arrived they pronounced the child dead.

The mother of the victim, Mrs. Mary Huxson, collapsed in her home at No. 218 School street, upon hearing the tragic report which the police telegraphed to her husband, a carpenter, working in Worcester.

from Taunton in search of liquor and a good time. McClear said that with his companion, William F. Little, he went to the room in a hotel, where all had several drinks from a bottle produced by the agent, who suggested that a party be made up.

McClear and Little invited two young women and all went by taxi to the Red Tea Room, three miles out of town. There, McClear, already intoxicated, McClear said, produced from his coat more liquor and mixed counsel fees. In addition to the $600 granted at the beginning of the trial.

Grover, Lynn shoe man, had sought an absolute divorce, naming Count Paul A. Monte of Winthrop. His wife, Mrs. Eleanor C. Grover, former actress, asked for separate support.

Numerous requests for rulings were made, some being allowed and others denied. Both cases may go to the Supreme Court, it is said.

Grover popularly was believed to be a millionaire, but at the close of the trial his lawyers declared the shoe man virtually penniless.

During the hearing it was brought out that Monte, a married man, formerly a shoe clerk, at one time had been engaged to marry Miss Dorothy Cleveland, daughter of Mrs. Grover by a first marriage.

Sensational testimony was given regarding incidents alleged to have occurred at a Summer camp in Maine owned by Mrs. Grover, and at other places, which Grover charged Monte was too intimate with his wife.

It also was brought out that Monte was introduced to Lynn, Grover by her husband, who entertained the shoe man virtually penniless.

NEW HOSPITAL ADDITION IS OPENED

Cardinal O'Connell's House Is Model of Modern Design

Cardinal O'Connell's House, the newest addition to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, was formally opened today with a blessing by Cardinal O'Connell, for whom the new hospital addition is named. The service was held in the hospital house, the latest discovery shown to the science of medicine and surgery. On the first floor of the addition are eleven large, airy rooms for the reception of patients while on the second floor are twenty-one private rooms. The kitchen, observation room, sun room and other accessories of the modern hospital are contained in the new building. The Cardinal has been assisting in developing the new buildings for

Color this 101 Ranch Wild West picture, boys and girls, and get free tickets to the big show. Read the story for details.

Every child in New England has an opportunity to see the 101 Ranch Wild West Show FREE! Use either paint or crayons and color the above pictures. One hundred pairs of tickets will be given for the best colorings submitted on each of a series of five drawings, of which this is the second, during the next five days. You can use the tickets at the nearest town to your home that the 101 Ranch Show visits. Answers to today's picture must be received at the Boston Evening American office not later than midnight Saturday.

the comfort of its patients, with facilities of the highest character for the physicians, surgeons and attendants.

An imposing front entrance leads by a flight of stone steps to the massive door with iron trilled pattern carved above and an oak vestibule richly carved. All the floors are marble. One ascends by another flight of steps to the main hall or corridor to which daylight is admitted through two large paneled windows draped with warm cordial hangings.

To the left of the main entrance is the reception room for visitors. It is coolly furnished with water glass and table and looks out upon the broad driveway descending the steep hillside. Beyond this are the children's apartment, consisting of sitting room, chamber and bath. A suite for the use of the Cardinal, in a retired wing, is furnished in Colonial manner.

KIDDIES! HERE'S CHANCE TO SEE CIRCUS FREE!

Attention, New England Boys and Girls. Do you want to see a circus? See Wild West Show free! Well, here's your chance.

If you would like to see Miller and his 101 Ranch Wild West and Great Far West Show, which opens a week's engagement on next Monday at Edward Everett square. Don't forget, merely color the picture of Galloping Indian, which appears on this page.

Two hundred tickets for this marvellous Wild West Show and Circus will be given to New England boys and girls under eighteen years of age who send in the best colored pictures. That means that every boy and every girl, regardless of where they live, will have an equal opportunity of winning one of these tickets. And if you win a ticket what a wonderful time you are going to have when the 101 Ranch Show appears in the city nearest your home. In another column will be found a list of cities of New England where this big show will appear and the dates when it will appear. If you win a ticket, just look at the list and you will know where you are to see the show. See it in the city nearest your home.

Children may use crayons or paints in coloring today's picture. Pictures must be sent in the office of the Boston Evening American no later than next Saturday at midnight. Be sure to attach your full name and address to the colored picture. Mail your picture to "101 Ranch Wild West Show, Boston Evening American, 7 Winthrop square, Boston, Mass." and in a corner of your envelope write, "Picture No. 2."

What a exciting good time the boys and girls who win these 200 tickets are going to have! This show is the biggest Wild West Show in the world and contains 300 Indian performers, as well as 500 cowboys. A list of 1400 people take part in it, as well as 600 horses. Boys and girls can get some idea from these figures of what a fine time is ahead of them if they win.

POLICE HALT BIG KLAN RALLY AT MEDFORD

Just as too many cooks are supposed to spoil the broth, too many policemen spoiled the plans of the Ku Klux Klan for a grand rally and exhibition at Plimouth City, near the Malden-Medford square. The meeting of the Klan was heralded far and near. Thousands of tickets were distributed. "Meet the two hooded guards at the junction of Elm street and the 'Pewee'," said the notices. When the prospective Klansmen arrived, however, they found a policeman standing at attention at the designated place, while other members of the law were stationed at intervals of fifty feet about the place. "Keep moving," was the password handed the arriving Klansmen by the officers and the members of the hooded tribe headed the advice.

VETERAN CALLS BULLARD STORY 'WHOLE TRUTH'

Says No American Citizen
Can Afford to Miss Vivid
War Serial

The truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth is the character of General Bullard's memoirs, now appearing serially in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday American. In common parlance removed from service men.

Among the latest received are the following:
NATHAN PERLIN, Judge Advocate
Dept. of Mass. Veterans of Foreign Wars—A vivid history of the French in those who have been overseas and a history for all Americans in the story of the A. E. F. written by General Bullard for your people.

EDWARD P. CARYER, JR., Commander, Massachusetts Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars—I have read with much pleasure the very interesting story written by General Bullard of the activities of the A. E. F. during the war. Such a story as this, particularly from a man who knows whereof he writes, has more than ordinary interest to those of us who served overseas.

JOSEPH UNANS, 35th Artillery—I was only a private and am now only a citizen, but I have read every article of General Bullard's printed so far and wouldn't miss a chapter if I could help it. There is no American citizen who can afford to miss the opportunity of reading the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth on a topic of such importance on which there has been altogether too much evasion.

SERGEANT WILLIAM SNYDER, 10th Infantry, 5th Division—General Bullard's articles seem to be really inside news and facts which most of our General Headquarters would never have known, and I believe that every man who has seen service should welcome the opportunity to learn for the first time from indisputable authorities a great many things which have been bothering overseas men for some time.

AUTOIST HELD AFTER CAR KILLS FARMHAND

JUDGE ZOTTOLI GIVEN WATCH AT TESTIMONIAL
A testimonial dinner attended by leaders of the Massachusetts legislative and judicial bodies and several members of the bar was tendered to Judge Joseph T. Zottoli of the Central Municipal Court at the Hotel Westminister. Judge Zottoli, who was appointed to the bench last November, was presented a watch by his friends during the dinner.

CHARLES GATE BUILDING LAW CALLED INVALID
The constitutionality of the statute relating to the limitation of the height of buildings in the Charles Gate section to seventy feet was attacked by Alexander Whitehead, counsel for Joseph Hutton and other owners of the Hotel Kenmore who wish to increase the height of the building to eighty-eight feet by adding two more habitable stories to the present structure. Mr. Whitehead claimed the statute was unconstitutional because it limited a person in the use of his property without providing for any compensation.

Revere Ducks Get Lost in Tour of Sewer

For the want of better facilities five ducks, owned by a Revere resident, made their way through a surface water drain in the rear of the Revere cottas works, and the ducks were found in the main sewer on Broadway.

Their quacks were heard by Patrolman John Graham, who called the owner of a machine and saw the quack at the bottom. He got a ladder and brought two to the top. The other three continued on.

The dominant feature of the oil industry seems to be unwilling or unable to straighten out the recent price situation in Eastern Massachusetts, which is causing some of the most serious loss to small consumers of gasoline," Hultman charges.

There is no excuse for alarm in the adequacy of the supply for consumers of the law in general, he stated. Government reserves, which amount to 12,000,000 gallons of gasoline in storage.

My friends declare that there is a spread of more than 15 cents a gallon between the refinery and retail prices. Wholesalers are publicly giving a margin of 4 cents a gallon for pumping gasoline out of their tanks.

The same wholesalers are giving in addition various "valuable presents" such as special discounts, cash concessions, air pumps, washing machines, lighting of stoves.

Made by the Makers of ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Think What That Means To You!

WHEN the makers of ROYAL BAKING POWDER announced their perfected gelatine dessert, further recommendation was quite unnecessary to most housekeepers.

Through more than fifty years of complete satisfaction ROYAL BAKING POWDER earned its enviable reputation. Its absolute purity, wholesomeness and healthfulness have made it the unanimous choice of good cooks the world over.

The same high quality which endears ROYAL BAKING POWDER to free generations of good cooks is also to be found in ROYAL GELATINE DESSERTS.

And just as ROYAL BAKING POWDER is the acknowledged leader in its field, in like manner ROYAL GELATINE DESSERTS will dominate their field—for superiority is always recognized.

ROYAL GELATINE DESSERTS

Their Flavors Cannot Be Equalled—

Rich flavors from pure fruits are used for flavoring ROYAL GELATINE DESSERTS—that is why they are so delightfully fragrant and taste so wonderfully real. Is it any wonder that Alfred W. McCann, famous pure-food expert, declared that ROYAL GELATINE DESSERTS are perfect—that they could not be improved upon? Your first trial will be convincing.

So Easy to Make!

ROYAL GELATINE DESSERTS take but a few moments to prepare. They are simplicity, itself—for all that you do is dissolve the contents of the box in a cupful of hot water; then add a cupful of cold water to cool; then place in your ice-chest to chill.

You will be surprised at the rapidity with which ROYAL GELATINE DESSERTS set!

Mrs. Hendricks Whitman Given Welcome on Return

Delights Friends With Tales of Social Success Abroad As She Resumes Place in North Shore Set

Betty Alden
MRS. HENDRICKS HALET WHITMAN (Addaide Chatfield-Taylor that was) has returned home from a Winter spent abroad and is receiving the heartiest of welcomes in her smart Boston and North Shore milieu.

SHE ARRIVED in New York just a few days ago, to be met there by her father, Mr. Robert C. Chatfield-Taylor, of Chicago, and Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor, who were putting up at the Hotel Plaza after a cross-country journey from California.

MRS. WHITMAN was directly to the North Shore to show her hosts of friends there delightful in the tale of her social triumphs on the Continent, which more than one round percentage paid her marked attention, and where she has a fashionable and literary background quite all her own.

A SOUTHER BRILLIANT and able Boston matron, Mrs. Whitman C. Foster (Frances Hooty) also is making a brilliant trail across the fashionable and official skies of Europe. Mrs. Foster and Mr. Foster have given up their Berlin residence and are back in Paris, where Mrs. Foster finds the particular artistic atmosphere which she enjoys.

BERLIN, WE HEAR, has been quite lively this Winter, with American members of the Corps Diplomatique en evidence there and itinerant travelers of distinction appearing from time to time. In this society Mrs. "Bessie" Foster has held her accustomed place well to the fore.

SHE, LIKE Mrs. Whitman, dresses extremely well, is due to the Continent, has a decided flair for the artistic and unusual, and possesses many a drawing room talent. The Fosters are settled permanently abroad, while Mr. Foster is engaged in business.

SPEAKING OF the North Shore and the Villa Maury, set now preparing up that way for the summer season, the christening ceremony, earlier in the week, for the youthful son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon "Katherine" Prince was of particular interest to that contingent.

Mrs. Walter M. Pratt, a patroness and hostess for the American Legion Boxing Carnival set for June 5 at Braves Field. A gala evening of many attractions is arranged, with society taking keen interest in this project to raise an endowment fund.

MR. AND MRS. PRINCE have one of the houses on the Ames Lawrence estate at North Beverly, and Mrs. Prince's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rodolphe L. Augusta, of Commonwealth Avenue, are established at their Shore home nearby, "Hawthorne," in the Hamilton region.

THE AGASSIZ PRINCE marriage, a year or more ago, in St. Paul's Church in South Hamilton, carried the aura of ultra distinction and importance, for both young people number among their connections those who occupy the social summits of Boston.

AFTER the formal ceremonial and lively wedding breakfast, the festive couple, Mrs. Prince, Mr. and Mrs. Prince, rode a march on their friends and did the first lap of their wedding journey by airplane.

WHICH is quite as it should be, for Mr. Prince had the rank of lieutenant in the United States Air Service during the World War, and served overseas in a famous squadron. Going away centuries of both bride and bridegroom of region kind, gave the festive scene a most unusual touch.

FOR the christening ceremonial on Monday Morton C. Prince, a Harvard colleague of Mr. Prince in the 1918 class, was godfather for the small son of the house, who figures, I believe, the name of Gordon C. Prince Jr.

MR. AND MRS. BARTL KING are back at their Cambridge home after a long and leisurely bout through literary centres of Europe, their literary of an in definition that allowed of fascinating last moment changes of scene and plot.

THE seasonal round took them to Cannes after a Paris stay, and where they had a villa in Florence, where Mr. King devoted many hours to writing, consequently personal friends and hosts of readers of his books are quickly awaiting some new masterpiece.

DONALD LOWRIE TELLS WHY HE IS DYING IN PRISON

See it now. I had only a few dollars in my pocket at that moment so I took the proffered money.

"Older said you'd need this on the road," was Johnson's comment. I felt humiliated, but was grateful for my companion for the untold way in which he attended to things—there was no element of patronage or paternalism in his manner. He was just a pal for the day.

All the more reason why I should have played square with him, which to this day I keenly regret I failed to do.

We had one or two drinks together during the morning, and then hunched near the Continental, where I got my suitcase and checked out. My trunk was already at the ferry baggage room, where it had been for a week or more. After hours on the dock, I started down Powell street, intending to take in a show for the afternoon.

I didn't want to take in a show. I wanted to be free to have a drink whenever the desire came upon me. But Johnson, being normal, had thought of a show as a medium for killing off the intervening hours before evening.

At the corner of Powell and Market a sudden impulse assailed me. I had my ticket and reservation in my pocket, and I had made up my mind to leave on the train that night. Why submit to espionage, no matter how kindly, until night? Why not spend the afternoon as I pleased—my last afternoon in San Francisco?

So, without giving a thought to the perils of playing false to my friends, I made an excuse to step into a drug store at the corner, saying I needed a telephone card. I'll be right out," I promised Johnson, as I darted in toward the booths, visible from the sidewalks. I took the suitcase with me. I saw that he watched me enter one of the booths.

Then I peeked out and saw that he was watching the operation of the turntable in the middle of the street, and I emerged quickly and walked out of the store through the other entrance into Market street.

A few feet away was the big door of an office building where I knew the had ran clear through to Ellis street. I ducked in there, hurried through the hall, and five minutes later had my foot on a rail in a saloon two blocks away, drinking a glass of whiskey.

"He'll be frantic!" I reasoned.

through the alcoholic fumes. "He'll be frantic!" I reasoned. The thought of my getting into any kind of trouble in San Francisco, after the way he'd shooed Johnson down at the ferry to see whether I take the boat for Richmond and my track tonight. I'm going, all right, but how can I feel him? How can I get on board that train and away for New York without Older's knowing I would leave him mystified and stewing?"

It was the first time in my life that I had ever deliberately schemed to hurt or worry a friend, but I never thought of that. The idea of fooling someone, of being "dick" and cunning, took possession of me.

Then I made inquiries at the information bureau. I learned that a sleeper for the train on which I was to travel stood in the yards at the Santa Fe station, on San Pablo avenue, in Oakland, for the convenience of Oakland patrons. This car was taken out to Richmond by a switch engine a short time before the limited was scheduled to leave. Immediately I decided to go that way.

That car would be attached to the train, and I inside, and anyone watching to report would go back to San Francisco and say that I had not left on that train.

I followed that reprehensible course and it was not until I arrived in New York and wired Older in a fit of remorse that he knew what had become of me.

It was a wacky trick, but it was the only one of its kind, so far as I recall, that I have ever perpetrated. I have told of it solely because I want to show what alcohol does with whatever principles its victim may have to begin with.

My recollection of just when I went up to Sing Sing, or whether I met Osborne there or in New York is vague. It seems to me I spent several riotous days there, during which, through conversations with various persons and by reading the newspapers, I learned that the general sentiment regarding the appointment of Osborne as warden, was adverse to him. I think—though I do not remember clearly just what happened—that it was this knowledge the bearing that people were against Tom Osborne, that I was strengthened up and determined to do my part.

At my rate, I found myself in the warden's residence up there, with Tom as my guide, and he made me occupy the suite of rooms directly opposite his on the second floor. They were big rooms, three of them, with a bath. Somehow they seemed too sumptuous for me. I asked if I might not have a single room somewhere, urging that this suite might be needed for visitors, and that it was altogether too large for me.

"You may have any room you want," he said, pleasantly. "Let's go upstairs."

On the third floor I found just what I wanted—a medium sized room, with windows on two sides, screen door, extension lights, and a bath just down the hall. Moreover, I learned that the room opposite was occupied by "Jack," the warden's chauffeur, whom I liked, and who was a graduate from the George Junior Republic—whom Osborne had long been a director, and the room next to mine was that of "Harry," the warden's valet and all around handy man, and Harry was also a graduate from Auburn prison.

Jack was a big fellow, blonde and handsome. His package of toiletries, and a Hebrew. The other rooms on that floor, I learned were unoccupied.

To be up there meant freedom and advertisement.

SIXTY YEARS AGO a young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called to consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of diseases peculiar to women.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to woman-kind. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex, a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has entirely eradicated their distressing ailments.

close association with men I could understand. One could run about in any stage of undress and be comfortable under all circumstances. My room had window seats, from which a view of the Hudson could be had, and faced south, away from the storms of winter. A little sun balcony ran the full length of the building, and there were easy chairs in abundance.

Osborne had an engagement in New York for that afternoon, so I had all the rest of the day to unpack my belongings and get installed. I had been introduced to only two or three of the subordinate officers, and had not yet been given entrance to the prison. That evening I dined alone, and then went for a walk along the heights down the river.

At 11 o'clock, when Osborne returned, he had a long talk. He seemed to already realize that there was much to be done, and told me that he would me to act as his confidential secretary, handling correspondence and other matters that he would not care to trust to regular prison attaches whom he did not know, and also to be a sort of major-domo over the residence, attending to the ordering and checking of supplies, arranging for meals, providing for the proper reception of guests, and the like.

Your skin feels young and supple after the smooth rich lather

Fresh and exquisite—the way French soaps lather you

"It has that delicious captivating French quality we wanted so"

"We wanted a soap as delicious, as luxurious as French soaps. We asked you to make it—imported soaps are too costly to use all the time. And you have—oh, you have," women tell us.

We made it, appreciative, enthusiastic women, by the very method France uses for her finest toilet soaps!

"I can't keep it on the counter—it is selling at the rate of six to a dozen cakes to each customer," reports one merchant in Worcester.

"More than half my stock was sold in one day," says another in Waverly.

"Greater Boston is buying it from me at the rate of a dozen cakes per customer," still another delighted dealer sends us word.

A West Haven store doubles its initial order! "Send me a thousand cakes this time," telephones another impatient dealer—"1500 cakes for me, this is my third order in six weeks," phones still another.

Why are people so eager for Lux Toilet Form?

"It's so smooth—so caressing—the lather you get from Lux Toilet Form. So quick, too—and it rinses so easily."

"It gives your skin that same supple feeling French soaps did."

Your hair can be so glorious, lustrous, when it is washed gently and tenderly Woman after woman says the same thing about Lux Toilet Form.

"It has that delicious captivating French quality—you feel all satiny, fragrant, afterwards—as French soaps made you feel."

Rich, soothing lather! We made Lux Toilet Form by the French method because we knew you wanted that caressing lather! Skin feeling smoother, more supple—younger and fresher! You paid extravagant prices for imported soaps because they made you feel that way. Now there's Lux Toilet Form.

Instant, generous lather bubbling up between your fingers the moment the cake is wet! Lux Toilet Form is a true "lather condenser." That is why it lasts and lasts like imported soap. You wanted that—a delicious soap that you could use freely for both toilet and bath.

Delicately fragrant—it was a European perfume expert who created, from his rare, expensive attars, the beguiling fragrance of Lux Toilet Form. Evasive, delicate, delicious!

You will find Lux Toilet Form in its dear lavender and white wrapper, like a charming old-time sampler, at your druggist's, your department store and your grocery store. Ten cents. Ask for Lux Toilet Form today. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

CURLEY ENDORSES BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN'S INSURANCE PLAN

The news of the day records many accidents, both fatal and serious. A boy and a man were killed by falls. Automobiles killed two persons and injured several others. An aged couple were hurled 148 feet when a train hit their auto, the husband being killed and the wife seriously hurt.

A boy crossing the street was run down by a man taking a test for his automobile license.

Right on the heels of the chief executive of the Commonwealth, Mayor Curley today took out one of the Boston Evening American's $7,500 accident insurance policies, thus adding his hearty endorsement to that of Governor Fuller.

The Mayor's action was but only a beginning of the endorsement being dug in the 100,000 policies available. Mayor Curley's endorsement is a remarkable offer of so much insurance for the almost negligible sum of ONE DOLLAR a year to insure his family.

Each day the deluge of applications for policies grows heavier and heavier.

EDUCATIONAL, MAYOR SAYS

CITY OF BOSTON
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
CITY HALL
May 27, 1925.

Managing Editor,
Boston American,
Boston, Mass.
Dear Sir:

The Boston American's offer of a $7,500 insurance policy to any and all of its subscribers is not only an unexampled piece of generosity but a lesson in economic education.

It is moreover an exhibition of business shrewdness, since the American becomes a household word in every home, the insurance policy protects and which cannot nebulously be lost.

The present plan to no better work for the home and family than by educating them in the value of insurance, and the American policy in the house will be an important factor in bringing to the household the peace of mind and that protection in the rainy days that come to all and that feeling of peace and contentment which banishes the fear that disaster may overtake the family.

Insurance is preparation for the future, with its value as an important element in the value of insurance, and it promises to become the foundation of confidence and makes him a better and more useful citizen and a dependable asset for good government.

To educate the public in the importance, feasibility, and value of insurance for man's welfare is a fundamental duty of the press, for the peace and stability of the community.

Sincerely yours,
James H. Curley
Mayor.

Mayor Curley not only affirmed his faith in the Boston Evening American's accident insurance plan by taking out a policy but also wrote a letter warmly praising the educational value of the idea and the enterprise of this paper in offering this chance to its readers.

Insurance Co. of Chicago, one of the oldest and most reliable insurance companies of the nation.

Any person between the ages of sixteen and seventy, inclusive, may obtain a policy protecting him or her from all forms of travel accident.

All that is necessary is that the applicant enter his name in the Home Delivery subscription to this newspaper—a subscription delivered to the home by an authorized carrier, at a cost of only 12 cents a week, a saving of one cent each day, six cents a week or 12 cents a month.

If the applicant already is a Home Delivery subscriber, all that is required is the application and the service charge of $1 and the policy will be delivered.

GOOD FOR YEAR.

There is no need to pay "off" and "on" to the Evening American's offer.

Within a few days after application is received, the policy is sent to the Home Delivery subscriber and he or she is insured for one year against accident, with the privilege of renewal on the same terms at the end of that period.

All claims will be adjusted and paid through the service department of the Boston Evening American, No. 2 Washington Square.

Yankee Division Gets Baptism of Fire on the Line at Seicheprey, Relieving First Division, Gen. Bullard's Command

THESE are personal memoirs of experiences, the promise "I" can never be out of sight. I am not offering these memoirs as absolute fact, but as my impression and belief at the time.

—R. L. BULLARD.

How the 26th Division got its baptism of fire, relieving the First Division at Seicheprey, is told in today's installment of General Bullard's Memoirs. The First Division commander apparently felt irritated at the reports of the 26th Division officers—but read his comments.

FOR me this trench service brought an unwelcome reminder from the life of the soldier. For me it was less a soldier's life than any I had ever known—less personal, less human, less intimate. This was not really due to the kind but to the greatness of the war, the numbers that the war involved. It was too big to be personal. Persons and personality were lost, swallowed up, engulfed in the myriads of men.

Again before we entered the war I had noted in its literature that it reached me a great abundance of incidents, of heroisms of human personality. On my experience, however, I found that the war was not so much a series of incidents, but a continuous, unbroken, unrelenting struggle.

French predecessors had left us some indications for the battle, some showers in the back area, but had not left us their rolling laundries and their rolling laundries.

Two bad habits we were also acquiring—salvage and camouflage. For personal salvage is no bad habit, but as a military measure for armaments it is not so good. It has not been up to the present for us. We began in secret to salvage everything—old cans, old shoes, old clothing, old blankets, some of which, with the exception of the shoes, could we ever induce our soldiers afterward to use.

The war did not come sufficiently strong upon us to make this necessary before the armistice came to relieve us. But the habit of salvage fixed itself upon us, and we salvaged mountains of stuff upon every front and every battlefield which we never had the transportation or the labor to remove. As to camouflage, as with some forms of animal and vegetable life, it became a habit.

Two great troubles we were encountering in the trenches—the low battis and too many enemies. We were really adapted ourselves to the first than to the second. Our

JOY AT MOWBRAY'S FREED

A happy reunion of the Mowbray family was staged outside East Cambridge courthouse when nineteen-year-old, Halie, was cleared of the murder of Frederick E. Olenka, her uncle, on Thursday. Left to right, John L. Mowbray, her father, Halie M. Mowbray, the acquitted boy, and Mrs. David Graham, his sister. Mowbray, the elder, came from Boston, N. S., for the trial. The boy was held in $100 bonds, however, as a material witness in the event of Frank Moore, accused of the murder, is captured. Mowbray was asleep in the garage as a witness was slain.

HARVARD SECOND AND THIRD CREWS IN HENLEY

VARSITY TO GO TO RED TOP

Coch Stevens Begins Preparations for Classic With Yale Oarsmen

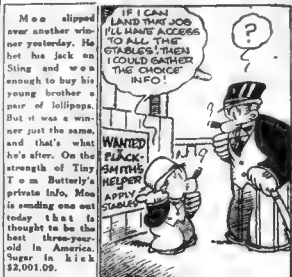

"There will not be any changes in the varsity boat before we row against Yale, except on account of an injury or illness to some member of the crew," said Ed Stevens, coach of the Harvard varsity crew. This means that the single scull that was victorious over Cornell, Pennsylvania and M. I. T. and forced the Navy crew to break the course record, will face Yale on the Tuck on June 15.

Coch Stevens is not upset about the recent defeat at Annapolis. He is inclined to be more optimistic than ever, for the Harvard crew was within two seconds of the course record in spite of the rough water. This proves that the Harvard crew is making steady improvement. The varsity crew has been given a three-day vacation this week in account of the fact that they will depart for Red Top for three strenuous weeks of training before the races. The crews will leave Boston this Saturday noon and will continue rowing at Red Top on the following Monday.

The second and third varsity crews will leave Boston Thursday for Philadelphia to participate in the American Henley Regatta on Saturday.

A great deal of credit must be given to Coach Stevens for bringing the Harvard crew out of the slump that they have been in for the past few years. Stevens started out by breaking up the idea that the Harvard crew was a "gentleman's crew." After convincing the students at Harvard that anyone had an equal chance to make the varsity crew, Coach Stevens started to develop a winning crew.

B. C. HAS POINT WINNERS FOR TITLE MEET

MAROON RUNNERS IN TRIM

Boston College has a fighting chance to finish among the first half dozen in Saturday's final in the intercollegiate. Last year the Eagle finished, aided by Yale's win in the final, in second place, 10 points behind the winner, Princeton. In the final, the team, finished the tenth with twelve points.

This time the team should score 15 or 20 points. Eight men will make the trip with Coach Fisher, the rest of the team will stay in the city. The team is made up of men who are sure point winners.

Twin-Bill Brings Red Sox-Yankee Series to Close

By Joe Casman. The Red Sox-Yankee series, which was held in New York City, was a close one. The Sox won the first game, but the Yankees won the second. VOICING THE GREAT VOICES OF DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

Winthrop Sq.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1925

20A

TONIGHT ON THE AIR

Those who wait until 11:15 p. m. tonight for their entertainment are assured that they will not have waited in vain, for at that time the principals from "The Brown Derby" Company, will come over from the stage of the Shubert-Walsh Theatre to the studio of WNAC and give what should prove a most exceptional entertainment. They will be Bert and Betty Wheeler, a most talented pair; Elsa Elm, and a flock of others.

Tomorrow afternoon and each Friday afternoon during June, "Jimmie" Gallagher will be "still announcing" with a greatly enlarged orchestra, called the "Shore Garden's Orchestra," the place where Jimmie is playing for the summer. He will broadcast from the studio of WNAC at 4:00 p. m.

The United States Marine Band is on WBZ tonight at 8:30 and as this is one of the premier bands of the country it will be well worth listening to. Washington society for years has danced to the music of the Marine Band and it is an accompaniment to all the most formal official receptions. It has played a big part in the fashionable life of the Capital.

Today is the anniversary of the Battle of Cantigny, when the American troops in France were given their baptism of fire. In the ruins of that little French village was reborn the hopes of victory for the blood-drenched nations that stood with their backs against the wall. It was there on May 28, 1918, that young America unleashed her great strength and flung it triumphantly forward. From that victory was reborn the hopes of the weary allied nations. Tonight from WRC in Washington at eleven o'clock will be broadcast a memorial of the battle. There will be speeches by prominent officials and the incense music will be played by the Army Band.

WEEKLY FISH CHAT

HOW the weeks do fly by! Here it is time for another fish talk—and some recipes that are among my favorites.

Fish prices—Haddock 9c, large mackerel 18c, halibut (fresh white eastern) 38c, jack shad 22c, rose shad 35c, steak cod 15c, fresh salmon 38c and 40c, dressed flounder 15c, fillet of flounder 25c, fresh butterfish 22c, fresh crab meat 65c, fresh crab flakes 35c, live lobsters 40c and 50c, a pound, boiled lobsters 45c and 55c, sea scallops 55c a pint, clams 28c a pint, finnan haddock 18c, smoked fillets 25c, smoked salmon and smoked halibut 65c.

And now I want to tell you about what I think is a delicious way to prepare scallops. The big sea scallops are in now and are especially nice for this:

RECIPE NO. 1340

SCALLOPS WITH POTATOES

1 pint scallops.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 tablespoon flour.
1/2 cup thin cream.
1-3 cup strained tomatoes.
Speck soda.
1 cup mild cheese, chopped fine.
1 egg, beaten.
Salt, mustard, cayenne.
Parboil the scallops, drain and cut in quarters. Set on ice for an hour. Melt butter, add flour and stir until well blended, then pour on the cream slowly, stirring constantly. Let boil; add tomatoes and soda. Let boil again, add cheese and when it has melted, the egg (beaten), the scallops and seasonings.

I was interested in something the fish man told me today—the fact that 75 per cent of the lobsters purchased are bought alive.

They certainly do taste much better when you boil or broil them your self, but I think most of us shrink from putting them into the boiling water alive. If you will insert a narrow bladed knife into the third joint of the lobster's tail, counting from either direction, the lobster is instantly killed, and when humanely treated in this way the flesh is said to be much better eating.

Urgo husband to remember on his fishing trips, too, that the real sportsman kills his catch at once by a blow on the back of the head. Most men know that fish suffer in the ad after they are landed just as we would suffer if our heads were under water, but they somehow just carelessly neglect to put them promptly out of all suffering. Speaking of fishing traps brings up the subject of vacations and I've been asked to urge you not to leave Kitty behind. Cats are domestic animals and cannot suit for themselves.

It is true they can live a long time in wretched conditions but no one wants to think of them left slowly starving to death. Yet you'd be surprised at how many left behind cats are already prowling around the Back Bay. If you can't take Kitty with you, one of the good societies for animals will come and call for her and either find her a good home or put her mercifully away.

And now to get back to our fish. Here's a most excellent recipe for

RECIPE NO. 1241

BAKED HALIBUT AND PEPPERS.

Put a 1 1/2 pound slice of chicken halibut in a buttered baking pan and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Arrange on top five thick slices of peeled tomatoes, then sprinkle with thin strips of green pepper. Bake in a hot oven 25 minutes, basting every 5 minutes with 1/2 cup melted butter and the liquid in the pan.

Do you own any of the clever individual fish moulds that can be purchased so inexpensively? If you don't, I hope you'll invest in some the next time you are in the city, and then try this for a company fish dish:

RECIPE NO. 1242

MOULDED HALIBUT.

Chop 1 cupful raw halibut very fine, being sure that it is free from skin and bones. Put it through the very finest knife in your chopper. Then put it in a bowl and pound it with your potato masher, adding gradually the slightly beaten white of egg and 1 cupful of heavy cream, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper and a few grains of cayenne. Butter the little fish moulds (of course you can use custard cups or any other moulds you have), fill and set them in a pan of hot water; lay a sheet of buttered paper over them and bake until they are firm (about 15 minutes). Remove the fish from the moulds to a hot serving dish, garnish with points of lemon and slices of cucumber and serve with the following sauce:

Melt 2 tablespoons butter. Blend with 2 tablespoons flour, and then pour on a generous half cupful of thin cream. Let boil and then add, a little bit at a time, 1/2 cup butter, the yolks of 2 eggs, beaten, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, spack of cayenne and 1/2 cup lobster meat cut to dice.

Mellow with smooth goodness!

THINK of the creamy sweetness of a fully ripe banana—think of its delicate, distinctive flavor. Isn't it surprising that you don't eat bananas oftener?

No other fruit combines so much deliciousness, digestibility and nourishment. Every inch of a nature-sealed golden banana is packed full of real food—the kind that means more energy for a hard day's work.

Bananas are good however they're served—on cereals, in salads and desserts.

When bananas are really ripe, when the golden skin is flecked with brown—that's when this favorite fruit is at its delicious best.

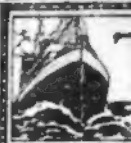

Make sure of having bananas just right by buying them by the dozen and letting them ripen at room temperature.

MONTREAL TRIP IS POPULAR

The excursion to Montreal at reduced rates, which the Boston & Maine Railroad has arranged for next Friday, May 29, has been marked by popular interest that recalls the old-time excursions of the days before the automobile. This opportunity to get to Montreal over night and to spend two days in that quaint city, returning to Boston Monday morning, at a railroad fare of only $10 in coaches for the round trip, has appealed to many.

The full fare from Boston to Montreal and return is $23.60, so this excursion is being conducted at less than half the regular rate in order to determine the extent to which the public is interested in these renewals of the popular excursions of a decade ago.

Tickets are on sale at the North Station and at the Consolidated ticket offices. The trains on which excursion tickets will be good will leave the North Station Friday evening at 6:45, 7 and 7:30 p. m. Eastern Standard time, arriving in Montreal for breakfast the next morning. Saturday and Sunday will be available for sightseeing by the excursionists, and trains will leave Montreal returning Sunday evening at 8, 1:25 and 3:40 p. m., due in Boston Monday morning between 7 and 8 a. m., Eastern Standard time.

GREAT LAKES TRIP IS IDEAL FOR VACATION

Niagara Falls is one of the wonders of the world that every American should be able to boast of having seen and why not combine a trip to the Falls this summer with a vacation water trip through the Great Lakes?

The Falls are almost at the door of Buffalo, which is the Eastern Terminal of the Great Lakes Transit Corporation, and just twenty miles away from the famous cataract roars the equally famous Niagara Gorge. This trip on inland seas really makes one of the most marvelous summer vacations that it is possible to take.

Going west the Great Lakes liners traverse Lake Erie, the Detroit river, Lake St. Clair, the St. Clair river, Lake Huron, the Straits of Mackinac, the Sault river, Portage Lake and Lake Superior, leaving Buffalo every third day, en route to Duluth, touching at Cleveland, Detroit, Mackinac Island, Sault Ste. Marie and Houghton.

BERMUDA IDEAL SPOT FOR VACATION TOUR

Bermuda is only two days distant from New York, and contrary to popular belief, free from the heat of the tropics, and offers unequalled opportunity for summer vacation tours at no greater cost than a mountain or seashore vacation.

The out-of-doors appeals to tourists in Bermuda as nowhere else. Water sports of all kinds—bathing, sailing, rowing, canoeing, motor-boating and fishing, form the chief diversions.

Perhaps one of the most interesting sights is the famous Crystal Cave, reached by winding coral stairways, brilliantly lighted, and located many feet below the surface of the earth.

The Furness Bermuda Line of New York, under contract with the Bermuda government, operates two magnificent new twin-screw, oil-burning trans-Atlantic steamers.

MANY REGISTER FOR PILGRIMAGE

All persons who may be contemplating a pilgrimage to Rome during this year of jubilee will do well to consult with Henry L. Mulligan, the New England agent of the French line. This pilgrimage is to be an all-New England party, limited to 100 persons, and already many distinguished clergymen and others have been registered for the trip.

Every detail of the thirty-five days of travel on the continent has been carefully considered and arranged, the principal feature being that every night will be spent in a hotel. The party will be accompanied by capable couriers and linguists who will be supplemented by local guides at the cities visited.

The trip embodies a visit to the principal cities and the shrines of France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland and Italy.

Prospective pilgrims will be delighted with the opportunities which they will have to visit the convent where the newly canonized Saint, Sister Theresa of the Little Flower, lived and died, of visiting the city where St. Joan of Arc suffered martyrdom, of spending several days in Paris, enjoying the beautiful trip down the Rhine in leisurely stages, Switzerland, and finally arriving in Italy, where visits will be made to the principal shrines in that land of shrines, visiting Milan, Padua, Venice, Loretto, Assisi, Florence, Pisa, and Genoa, and spending eight days altogether in Rome. On the journey homeward, Lourdes is also visited.

DORCHESTER FOLK ARE PLANNING CAPE OUTING

Members of the Dorchester Royal Arch Chapter are planning the liveliest, jolliest and best annual outing in their history for Saturday and Sunday, June 13 and 14, and have selected Webster L. Draper's New Terrace Gables, Falmouth, as the scene of their activities.

Rain or shine the party will leave Uphams Corner at noon, June 13 for the trip down the Cape.

Dancing will be held in the Casino and facilities to enjoy the warm bathing will be available. There will be bowling and outdoor sports of every kind, including fishing and golf, and side automobile trips will be arranged.

SAGUENAY TRIP IS ATTRACTIVE

The Canada Steamship Lines have just announced some special cruises to the Saguenay River that outclass anything that has been offered in years in attractive vacation trips to Northern climes. This company has arranged to run the commodious steamer Cape Eternity every Saturday from Montreal for a special cruise to the Saguenay, providing a delightful seven-day water trip with stopovers for sightseeing on the Saguenay, and at Tadoussac, Murray Bay, Quebec, and Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

All transportation, staterooms, and meals are provided for the entire trip, and passengers use the steamer as a hotel while en route. This does away with all bother of making reservations from point to point.

NEW STEAMER ON HUDSON

Chauncey M. Depew is the name of the newest steamer added to the fleet of the Hudson River Day Line, according to an announcement by the steamship company. The new steamer was named in honor of former Senator Depew in connection with his ninety-first birthday.

Mr. Depew said it would afford him deep satisfaction to receive such an honor, particularly as he recalled his long and close intimacy with Commodore Alfred Van Santvoord, the founder of the Albany Day Line, of which the present company is the outgrowth.

Coolidge Right in Stand on Foreign Debts

President Coolidge deserves and will receive the wholehearted commendation of the country for his action in calling for the collection of Europe's debts to America without further delay.

The President has let Europe know, diplomatically but firmly, that the United States must be discriminated against no longer in this respect.

He has served notice that unless steps are taken by the nations indebted to us to clear their obligations pressure will be exerted to compel them.

President Coolidge is right. France and the other Continental countries that have been wasting time and energy discussing how they will pay their debts to America—which means whether they will pay them—will do well to stop talking, get to work and pay.

The President has been patient, almost to the degree at which patience ceases to be a virtue. He has listened to all the arguments of Continental Europe for the postponement of payment. He has been sympathetic over the post-war conditions abroad. He has permitted payments to be deferred and promises renewed, but now his patience is exhausted.

The obvious fact is that certain European nations are deliberately violating their contracts with this country. The procedure is tantamount to deception and close to actual cheating. They are paying their debts to one another and ignoring America, regardless of their pledges to meet their obligations to this country at the same time and on the same basis that they paid their debts to their neighbors.

During the World War and for a few agonizing years after America held the bag, an opus bag filled with gold, from which Europe was permitted virtually to help itself. America is still holding the bag, and it is almost empty, while the funds are needed here. The time has come to refill the bag.

If the Continental nations indebted to us were spending their money, or rather, our money, to salvage resources wrecked by war or to develop the industries of their people, the situation might be different.

But they are spending it on armies and armaments. They are proceeding in cold blood to lay the foundation for another war with the money borrowed to win the recent world conflict. It is high time that these nations stopped this hazardous procedure by which the peace of the world may be jeopardized again.

It is high time that they stopped inflating their armies and armaments, that they stopped fighting and got to work and paid their honest debts.

Great Britain offers the rest of Europe a splendid example of the road to financial rehabilitation. She suffered as much as any of the allied nations and far more than most of them. She emerged from the welter of war, reeling from exhaustion, half-blinded by the horror of it and close to despair.

With peace came problems that threatened to be as serious as any of the war, the empire was filled with unrest. Political and social discontents raged.

But England drew a long breath and got down to the job of putting her own house in order. She carried on in peace as she carried on in war. She knew that the honor of the empire was at stake.

She realized that a nation to retain its own self-respect and the respect of the world must be able to hold up its head unshamed before its friends as well as before its enemies.

This was a sound and sensible position, and what is more it was an intelligent position. In consequence, Great Britain is at par financially today, on a basis of common honesty and official integrity.

She has declared for the payment of her just debts in full, without any ifs and buts or whys and wherefores. She intends to clean the slate of international accounting as rapidly as possible and she is progressing fast.

And this is exactly what President Coolidge is determined that the Continental nations shall do, so far as America is concerned. If the nations are to be the moral equals of the progress shown by England, they will do as she suggests without delay.

For the people of the United States of America are supporting the President in this stand with all their hearts.

Ending the Law's Delay

Further Putting Off of the Trial of "Brickbottom" Cases Would Have Redefined on Bay State Courts

After further delay, the reason for which is not apparent to the public, the liquor cases resulting from the recent raid upon the so-called "Brickbottom" section of Somerville are to be tried in the Criminal Court now sitting at Cambridge.

Any further delay in the disposition of these cases would have been, as we believe, a reflection upon the courts of Massachusetts. There is scandal enough today in the United States in the administration of justice.

From the Chief Justice of the United States down to the humblest and poorest citizen seeking only justice "the law's delays" have been denounced as an unpardonable, intolerable and utterly unnecessary travesty upon justice. Every judge on the bench, every prosecuting attorney, every lawyer in the land, as officers of the court, and every citizen share the blame for this scandalous and disgraceful misadministration of justice.

To permit stupid technicalities to interfere with the prompt disposition of cases is to let the law be an interference with the administration of justice, as the plain people have a right to demand that justice shall be administered.

To permit pettifogging lawyers to gain time in which to add to the law's delay is a sin against the public.

To permit defendants charged with serious crime to go without trial for weeks and even months is a crime against the innocent among them and a special privilege to the guilty that damns alike the judge or the district attorney or the lawyer responsible for the delay.

Therefore any evidence that appears anywhere in the New England States that a judge on the bench or a district attorney or one of his assistants, an honest, fearless and conscientious lawyer, a brave jurymen who votes according to the dictates of his conscience, is endeavoring each in his own way and according to his own call to end the law's delay and cleanse the courts and give to the innocent a swift acquittal and to the guilty a conviction no less swift, deserves

A Message to Europe

AMERICA is giving this advice, "Settle Up and Settle Down," to the Continental nations that are deliberately delaying the payment of their just debts to us. President Coolidge's patience is at an end, and the American people are supporting unanimously his demand that Europe's obligations to us be no longer neglected. The American Eagle bears the message that Europe must settle up its obligations to us and settle down to peace if it is to receive further consideration from this country.

Let it be said to the honor of England that she has displayed the morality and intelligence to begin the payment of her just debts on a foundation of national honesty and integrity. The debtor nations of the Continent will follow her example if wisdom guides them.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

FIRST, a woman becomes adjusted to her husband, then accustomed to him, and, finally, REBORN to him.

In the "garden of life" most women are looking for a spot of morning glory which blossoms under the sun of a man's smile, eludes without drooping, and SHUTS UP of its own accord.

By marrying a man you merely make an acquaintance of him. It takes two or three years more to smooth out the raw edges and the hard corners and turn out that finished product—a husband.

Public speaking looks SO easy to a man until he finds himself facing a battery of expectant eyes and hears his wife whisper: "Turn down your collar."

There are so many new and novel forms of "femininity" these days that a woman scarcely knows which to choose when she decides to stop her husband.

After a man has alienated his conscience two or three times it just lies down and goes to sleep like "good doggie" and never troubles him again. It isn't the "will, small voice," but the persistent, witty voice, that keeps most men in the straight and narrow path.

Once, when you walked to the altar beneath a man you used to feel that all his asgites were really reminding him; but nowadays you know that they are cheerfully planning to take him over when you get through with him.

The chief difference between working for a living and marrying for one is that in the former case you are "independent" from $ to $ and in the latter case from $ when the children go to bed to $ when the baby wakes up.

Among married couples phenomena are a clover with four leaves, a calf with five legs and a man with a sixth sense of punctuality.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Allie Michaels
LIGHT upon a lonely shore,
A rose in barren ways, a bar,
her where forebore no temper ever stays; an hour of peace amid the rush and roar of restless care, a silver song upon the breeze, to near and sink away; all these, and more, my Love, are you; yet who could fitly name this mark that free me from and through to sudden golden flame? And who point in eager words the thrill of swift desire, like breathless flight of homing birds whose wings can never fail? How faint still the picture shows the thing I would portray, how dimly on the canvas glows the splendid light of day! Hence I can only call you so:

a light upon life's shore, but, Love, all earth and heaven must know that you are more, far more!

Ten in Family
Helping Hand Editor:

I wonder if some kind reader has a coat and dress and a pair of shoes, size 4 1/2 or 5, I could have. I am sixteen years old and there are ten in the family and it is very hard to get along. I am so much as I can after school by the hour and would housework for someone near Everett or Malden. I go to school half a day, but am ashamed for that much as some of the girls make comments about me. I will appreciate anything I can get.

GLADYS
Mrs. A. B. J. is in need of clothing for her girls, ages 12, 11, 8, 7 and 3 boys 5 and 4. Can make over anything. She also needs clothing, size 42.

Gerard, one of nine children, writes that his mother who has been very ill with rheumatism is now able to be up and would appreciate a dress, size 38, and shoes 8. Also boys 15, 14, 9, 7, 5 and 3. I am all body in need of clothes and shoes.

Margaret K. deserted mother of two children, asks old furniture, such as bed, chest, etc.

Katherine asks for clothing for herself, age 11, sister 3 and infant baby, also for mother, size 46.

Mrs. G. M. R. 11, will give a good home to a man for help around her place.

Mrs. N. M. D. asks nothing for two boys, 14 and 12, who share for them, size 4 1/2 and 3 1/2. Husband deserted her.

Others in Need.
Mrs. James P. whose husband only makes $15 a week, needs clothing for herself, size 38; shoes 8; for girl 3 and boy 2, and for a newborn.

You are particularly anxious to accomplish a certain thing, but you lack self-confidence. You are not sufficiently aggressive in going after the object of your ambition.

You feel that if certain ones knew of your actual qualifications along that line there would be no trouble in getting what you want. You look longingly at the desired objective, but when it comes to taking any definite step you weaken.

How do you suppose that you can inspire others with the idea that you are fitted to carry on that business, if you do not let it be known? If the person who is to head an endeavor is afraid to tell what he knows or is backward about taking a decisive hand, why should you expect the position of responsibility to be thrust upon him?

Waiting, hesitating steps are not the signs of capability. Prompt, brave, sure steps are the signs of a child.

The man or the woman who wishes to lead must look and act the part.

WE MUST RECEIVE AS WELL AS GIVE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

VERY often it seems as if a man had no more original ideas and when he talks he is simply rehearsing what he has said before, or he is making an empty sound. It is like rattling the pan when all the contents have been spent.

The reason why so many people give out and their source of supply ceases is because they cease to take in.

We must receive as well as give.

The novelist must have material constantly if he is to keep on writing novels.

Many a mother has found her task irksome and tiresome because she is constantly giving out and never taking in. She ought to have some means of recreation or study, or something by which she can lay in the supplies which she is supposed to give out.

Teachers also run dry. They become hoarse and repeaters of platitudes simply through lack of energy is spent upon teaching. They are constantly giving out and never taking in.

The preacher ceases to be a source of inspiration to his congregation when he gets no inspiration himself. He cannot pass on what he has not.

This reasoning applies to us all. Those who are able to help others are the strong, not the weak.

There was a play not long ago that stirred New York called "The Pool," in which a man quit a good job where he was getting a good salary and went to helping people by giving away overcoats. In this he was supposed to be like Christ. What the play did not show, however, was that when his overcoats gave out he would have to beg for overcoats to last. When his abundance ceased his charity would have to cease and he would have to be a burden to others.

It behooves every human being to remain strong and capable in order that he may be of assistance to others about him. The weak man is of no aid to himself or anybody else.

The Golden Rule which says that we should do to others as we would be done by implies the fact that we insist upon our own rights. Self-sacrifice is based upon self-preservation. If there is no strengthening of one's self by a constant intake there is no help of others by a constant outgo.

GET ACQUAINTED WITH QUEEN OF THE NIGHT

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

WHY not get acquainted with the most precious queen of the summer night?

Even a naked-eye acquaintance is delightful, but an open glass or a binocular will put you into a steeper box or a front seat in the grand procession of the night.

Of course you must have a "program." The queen likes to have her admirer call off the names of her jewels and the wonders of her universe. Moreover, you cannot do this unless you have a clear view of the naked eye.

Observe, no photograph reproduces faithfully and fully the charm of the moon when "beamed in from your chair," she doth "state in wonted manner keen."

But I have tried to make an inked sketch which will enable the reader to learn the names of the principal features, especially those of the so-called "near" (maria), which by their vastness and smoothness, make them easy to color—and their color is striking and suggestive.

There are so many legends concerning men, women, animals and plants, said to be visible in the moon.

The names, which were given to these objects in the days when what was almost alone deemed to be "natural," consisted of an intimate knowledge of the ancient languages, are in Latin, but since that interval, the names have been changed to relatively little studied in our time, if they have not been entirely dropped.

Correspondence, then, to the figures attached to the dotted lines of indication surrounding the moon in the picture, are the following names:

(1) The Crater Sea. (2) The Sea of Perseus. (3) The Sea of Neptun. (4) Tycho (crater mountains). (5) The Sea of Clouds. (6) The Sea of Vapors. (7) Copernicus (crater mountains).
